

► Wallcoverings are once again back in fashion and a leading trend is the textured pattern. Anaglypta is specifically designed to be painted and now this British design classic has introduced a new choice of designs for Spring 2007 that can be used to interpret any style from vintage to heritage to classic to contemporary. Endure is ideal for heavy traffic areas such as corridors and entrance areas of hotels and bars. Tough and durable, it has been produced with layers of embossed paper to make it extra thick.

Enquiries - circle readerlink 134

◀ Designs by textile designer, Aleta Bartel-Orton, are to be made available on Hemp, for upholstery use. Aleta, the UK source for the hand block printed fabrics by Brigitte Singh, has selected a range of Hemp suited for use on sofa and dining upholstery, as well as walling. The launch follows her switch to digitally printing her designs. Printing in this way allows for increased complexity in print designs and helps to eliminate the compromises made by screen or rotary printing in translating artwork.

Enquiries - circle readerlink 136

▼ The Fromental Stripe is a classic design suited to modern tastes from the London handmade interiors house. Stripes are hand-stitched onto a fine silk background. The hand-embroidered stitching is available in over 900 silk threads against any desired colour silk-backed paper so the bespoke panels can be tailored to specifically match a wide range of colour themes. The frequency and colour of the stripes dictate the rhythm to establish a new movement in panoramics.

Enquiries - circle readerlink 135

The latest fabrics & wallcovering products

◀ Divine and Luxuria are two of the designs from the 'Boutique' collection by Panaz. A series of embellished flame retardant fabrics designed to create a memorable and essentially luxurious ambience in hotel and cruise ship accommodation. The collection incorporates new yarns which enables the appearance of silk embroidery to be faithfully replicated whilst exceeding internationally recognised standards relating to fire resistance and durability.

Enquiries - circle readerlink 137